"Academic Integrity: A Letter To My Students" – widely cited document by a community college faculty member Bill Taylor. Not your typical paragraph added into a syllabus. http://www.academicintegrity.org/pdf/Letter_To_My_Students.pdf

II. Fundamentals

- The US Copyright Office website <http://www.copyright.gov/title17/>
- Fair Use (Section 107 of the Copyright Act of 1976)
<http://library.truman.edu/weblinks/copyright02.htm#photocopying> Scroll down to topic "Fair Use".
- The TEACH Act 2002 (added Section 110 to the Copyright Act)
http://copyright.iupui.edu/sec110\(2\).htm.htm)
- The Digital Millennium Copyright Act (DMCA) Note: This act is controversial and the following source from the American Library Association, though reasoned, is not unbiased.
<http://www.ala.org/ala/washoff/WOissues/copyrightb/dmca/Default2515.htm>
- Agreement on Guidelines for Classroom Copying, commonly called the Classroom Guidelines on Fair Use [though not from the statute, the tests of brevity/ spontaneity/cumulative effect have been enshrined in collective practice since 1976] Scroll down to "Copying for Classroom Use"

V. Multi-sensory

These Guidelines for the Educational Uses of Music were developed and approved in April 1976 by the Music Publishers' Association of the United States, Inc., the National Music Publishers' Association, Inc., the Music Teachers National Association, the Music Educators National Conference, the National Association of Schools of Music, and the Ad Hoc Committee on Copyright Law Revision.

Here is the website of a great resource person on image copyright issues – Christine Sundt of the University of Oregon. <http://darkwing.uoregon.edu/%7Ecsundt/copyweb/>

Multimedia Fair Use Guidelines were compiled by CONFU before the CONFU talks collapsed. Refer to appendix J, but realize that these guidelines were never ratified due to opposition from the copyright holders participating in the talks.
